

A PARTING SHOT

Crews in Seattle build the pile wall box that would become the “safe haven” for a boring machine drilling two miles of tunnel for State Road 99. “Bertha,” as the machine is named, took her first cuts in July, and the safe haven allowed engineers to work out kinks before getting tunneling under way.

Source: Washington State Department of Transportation ND